The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Air Marshal Leigh-Mallory will be Gen. Eisenhower's air commander in chief fills one of the major gaps which has existed in the invasion command structure.

This selection of the chief of Britain's RAF fighter command answers the question about leadership of the tactical air force which will give close support to the amphibious assault on Hitler's Atlantic wall.

The simultaneous designation of Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, formerly second in command to Admiral Cunningham in the Mediterranean, as Eisenhower's naval commander in chief virtually completes the roster of invasion leaders.

Some of the shifts accompanying establishment of the invasion command, however, particularly among top-flight American generals, pose some questions about the coming assaults on Europe, and the relationship between Eisenhower's operations and the Mediterranean theatre which is leaving to Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

Eisenhower obviously is taking with him to Britain a large portion of the winning team he had in North Africa and Italy—Tedder, Spaatz, Doolittle, Montgomery, Ramsay.

It would be a logical assumption that the American troops in his invasion forces also will be led by a general who won for Eisenhower in the Mediterranean—perhaps Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, or Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. The command of American ground forces in the one big field command still not announced in Eisenhower's set-up.

It is by no means clear as yet just what relation the seemingly overlapping air commands bear to each other, either. Eisenhower's authority does not reach to the Mediterranean, but that of his American strategic bombing commander, Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz, apparently does—extending to all long-range, behind-the-lines bombing of Germany, whether by the 8th air force in Britain, or by any of the three U. S. air forces in the Mediterranean.

The air war in the Mediterranean would seem, purely on the basis of announced changes, to be the one aspect of combat operations in that area destined to increase in importance in the immediate future. Nothing else offers a satisfactory explanation of the transfer of Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker to command all Allied air forces in that zone.

EAKER is largely responsible for the growth and development of the 8th air force in Britain to its present formidable strength. Eaker's arguments probably saved the 8th's bomber command from absorption by the RAF and kept it alive to

JAPS HAVE LOST
230 PLANES IN BRITAIN FIGHTDevelopments In Campaign
Indicate Enemy Aerial Difficulties

(By Associated Press)

The Japanese air force has paid the price of more than 230 planes shot down over New Britain during the first two weeks of that island's invasion. Announced Allied losses were 39. But even more important than these comparative totals, other developments seem to indicate something decidedly amiss from the enemy standpoint.

This is seen in enemy reaction to the Allied invasion of New Britain opened Dec. 15 at Arawe on the southwest coast. New Britain is by all odds the most important Japanese Pacific position invaded by the Allies, chiefly because of the superb harbor and network of airfields at Rabaul. Japan has expressed determination to hold on to the island.

Yet the moves of the Japanese air force against the U. S. Sixth army at Arawe and against the Marines invading Cape Gloucester Dec. 26 would seem to indicate one of two things. Either enemy reconnaissance is faulty—or the air force is loath to give battle in force at critical stages.

80 Shot Down at Arawe
Ships of the American invasion forces had to sail some 200 miles from New Guinea to put the men ashore at Arawe. Yet it was not until after the landings and the warships were on their way back that the first enemy air attack occurred.

To date, more than 80 Japanese planes have been shot down at Arawe. Of these, 37 were bagged Sunday night and Monday—at a time when Allied leaders were referring frankly to Arawe as a diversionary operation for the invasion of Cape Gloucester which already had opened Sunday morning.

The Japanese must have known something was going to happen at Cape Gloucester. For two weeks, American planes had telegraphed that punch with a steady bombardment.

Sunday morning, the biggest force of ships and men assembled in the southwest Pacific appeared off Cape Gloucester. Not until mid-afternoon did the Japanese air force show up. In contrast,

Southern Counties
Blanketed by Snow
As Mercury Tumbles

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Dec. 29—A four and one-half inch snow blanketed Cincinnati today, heaviest fall of the season. Motor traffic moved at snail's pace as the temperature tumbled to an overnight minimum of 22 degrees.

Myriad of many minor accidents reported to police was the plight of a motorist who became lost in swirling snow as he returned from Cincinnati to his northern Kentucky home. He drove down what he believed to be Gilbert ave., but "thought it was damned bumpy," so stopped his car to find he had driven onto a single-track wooden streetcar trestle high over uptown Eden park.

Northern and Central Ohio were out of the snow-belt. Cleveland reported a low temperature of 15 degrees but clear weather and prospects for continuation of the cold.

The state highway department said roads in the area south of a line through Greenville, Springfield, Cincinnati, Newark, Cambridge and Woodfield were covered with numerous slippery spots, but that sanding crews were working to reduce the traffic hazard.

Heaviest snowfall in the state—six inches—was reported in the Chillicothe area, while Toledo's nine-above-zero temperature last night was the coldest reported throughout the country. Akron was close behind with a reading of 10. Forecast for Thursday, for Ohio was fair and slightly warmer.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29—Mrs. Madge Wilson says she may contest the will of her father, Nicholas Ziegler of Mt. She said she knew nothing of such a provision, and that she had not heard from him since she was adopted at the age of three.

Fathers Will Make Up 20 Percent of
Jan. 10 Draft Call

Twenty per cent of the draftees who will be summoned for induction from the Salem district Jan. 10 will be pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, local Selective Service board officials disclosed today.

Induction notices for these men were to be mailed sometime today, instructing them to report at the Memorial building draft board headquarters at 6 a. m. Monday, Jan. 10, for the trip to the Cleveland induction station.

The January quota is quite large, draft officials admitted, and will be made up of single men, others whose deferments have expired, volunteers and the fathers.

This will mark the first time that the Salem draft board—at the bottom of the manpower barrel as far as the younger men are concerned—has been obliged to call the long-manned fathers for induction.

Others will be classified in 1-A from time to time to prepare for future draft calls.

(By Associated Press)

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Dec. 29—United States Leathernecks, with tank support and aided by planes, today had pushed from their invasion beachheads at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, to within one mile and a half of the enemy's air-drome.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communiqué also reported American air fighters and ground and torpedo boat guns downed 37 Jap planes in beating off persistent air attacks at Arawe, the Army's invasion base 60 miles southeast of Cape Gloucester.

The Cape Gloucester marines collected dividends in supplies, ammunition and artillery captured from the Japanese.

Four enemy counter-attacks against the Marine line running inland from Bergen bay, east of the cape, were repulsed, and four out of 36 Japanese planes which attacked vessels off the beachheads were downed by the ships' guns.

Penetrate Jungle Again
At Arawe the Sixth army sent patrols back into the jungle-land above the base of the Arawe peninsula, resuming operations in an area from which the Americans were driven Sunday by a Japanese counter-attack.

The destruction of 37 Japanese planes Sunday night and Monday, by Arawe air fighters and ground ships' guns, brought to 84 the number of enemy aircraft downed there.

Small Arms Manufacture
Is Explained for Lions

Colin M. Doyle of the Salem Engineering Co., former chief engineer for the Remington Arms Co., discussed the manufacture of small arms ammunition at the Lions club meeting in the Lape hotel last night.

The speaker outlined the engineering problems, extent of scientific research, testing and production, and the tremendous demand for large quantities of ammunition. Doyle showed a display of small arms ammunition in connection with his talk, explaining that 30,000 rounds of ammunition is needed to produce even one casualty because of the quantities of bullets used in testing target practice, careless shooting and rapid firing rate of modern weapons.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Ohio's educators today turned to the state for a solution to the wartime teacher shortage.

The association's representative assembly delegated authority to its executive committee last night sufficiently broad to include a request to Gov. John W. Bricker for a special session of the legislature to consider the schools' financial needs.

The committee was authorized specifically to "cooperate with the Ohio School Survey commission (created by the legislature to study school problems) by presenting to them the financial needs of the public schools and to carry on a vigorous campaign during 1944 for more adequate school support."

Earlier, the 500 delegates were told 1,000 vacancies existed due primarily to the lure of higher wages in other occupations.

The convention adopted a report asking suitable legislation to establish

SHIP MOVEMENTS AT GIBRALTAR REPORTED

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 29—The heaviest shipping movements at Gibraltar since the Italian invasion were reported by Axis radio today along with fresh boasts about the "impenetrability" of German defenses on the French invasion coast.

The Vichy radio reported a British cruiser and nine torpedo boats had left Gibraltar and that 58 merchant vessels were in the harbor at present.

The Berlin radio quoted a Madrid report that a convoy of 77 ships, mostly 10,000-ton vessels, had arrived at Gibraltar from an Atlantic crossing.

AIRFIELDS NEAR
ROME BLASTEDBombs Fall Close To City
As Allies Hit Hangars,
Runways

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 29—Allied medium bombers peppered airfields near Rome yesterday and Nazi propagandists sought today to picture the operation as an attack on the capital itself.

A communiqué from Allied headquarters at Algiers confirmed the bombings today. Earlier enemy radio stations were on the air with wild-eyed descriptions of how "heavy bombs" shattered the outskirts of Rome, causing damage and casualties in residential quarters.

The Paris radio broadcast that bombs fell on Garbatella about 14 miles east of the Vatican city and close enough for the Pope to see the raid.

The official report from Allied headquarters, however, said the bombers had attacked hangars, buildings and dispersal areas of the airfield at Ciampino, south of Rome, and accurately blasted the Centocelle airfield east of the city.

Hit Western Germany
Two-engine Messerschmitt bombers struck at western Germany last night and Typhoon bombers hit the "rocket-gun coast" northern France. Both missions were carried out without loss.

In addition fighters swept over enemy territory in daylight, destroying a German plane and losing one of their own.

The raid on the airfields outside Rome was the ninth reported in the area of the Italian capital although Rome itself has not been bombed by the Allies since August.

A German propaganda broadcast in November said an Allied plane dropped bombs on Vatican city on Nov. 5. The Vatican radio said later that an unidentified plane had dropped four bombs. Allied headquarters announced Nov. 7 that a thorough investigation showed that Vatican city was not bombed by the Allies.

In a statement broadcast Monday by the Vatican radio Pope Pius indicated the nationality of the plane was known, declaring the "barbaric" attack was "deliberately planned and dishonorably and unsuccessfully screen behind the anonymity of the pilot." The statement did not identify the attacker.

Ramsay Heads

As Time Draws Near
For Invasion

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 29—Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay today was designated naval commander-in-chief under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of second front forces. Air Marshal T. L. Leigh-Mallory was named commander-in-chief for air.

The announcement said the appointments were made following conversations between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Ramsay, formerly second in command in the Mediterranean is 60, has been in the Royal navy since 1898.

Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory has been head of fighter command of the RAF. He commanded the Dieppe raid in the summer of 1942. He is 56 years old.

U. S. Appointment Remains

With these appointments Gen. Eisenhower's invasion staff is complete with the exception of the announcement of the American ground force commander. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery has been designated commander of British ground forces.

These appointments followed the announcement by President Roosevelt in Washington that Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, leader of the attack on Tokyo, would command the Eighth air force in Great Britain.

The President also named Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, present commander of the Eighth air force, to command all Allied air units operating in the Mediterranean theater under Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme commander of that theater.

Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, who has commanded all United States forces in Britain, was named by the President to command all American forces in the Mediterranean, as deputy to Gen. Wilson. Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who commanded U. S. aircraft in the Solomons campaign, was made chief of the 15th air force in the Mediterranean area.

WLB HEAD DEFINES
PAY RAISE ISSUE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29—The government's wage stabilization program does not permit pay increased in wholesale, retail and service trades to compete with rates paid in war industries, Chairman Lewis M. Gill of the Regional War Labor board declared today.

Gill's statement was contained in a written opinion explaining the board's denial of wage raises to 24 trucking and warehouse employees of the Sandy Valley Grocery Co. at Ashland, Ky., and the Charleston Grocery Co., Charleston, W. Va. The employees are members of the AFL Teamsters union.

The decision reversed a tripartite panel's recommendation for increases to bring rates in line with sound and tested going rates for common labor in manufacturing plants in the two cities.

Gill said the increase would "amount to a proposal that rates in the wholesale, retail and service trade field should be brought up en masse at least part way toward the levels prevailing in war industries."

"No such major operation on the wage structure of the country is permissible under the stabilization program," he continued, "unless the present rates represent a substantial amount of living or are below the sound and tested rates being paid for similar work in comparable establishments."

UNION CHIEFS
ADVISE ARMY
OF DECISIONHad Been Set for Tomorrow:
Wage Controversy
Still Unsettled

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Secretary of War Stimson announced today that heads of the three remaining operating unions had agreed to call off a strike which had been set for tomorrow.

The three union chiefs issued a joint statement with Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell after a conference in the latter's office. They were David B. Robertson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, H. W. Fraser of the Order of Railway Conductors, and T. C. Cashen of the switchmen's Union of North America.

The three unions represent approximately 230,000 railway employees whose decision to strike at 6 a. m. tomorrow caused President Roosevelt to order the nation's railroads taken over by the Army Monday night.

Both Stimson and Somervell said as far as they were concerned, there would be no arbitration of wages while the roads were under their control. It remained in their discretion whether capitulation of the three brotherhoods would be on a cooperative or forced basis.

Controversy Unchanged

Even a complete capitulation by the firemen, conductors, and switchmen would not dispose of the wage controversy. The 15 nonoperating unions of more than a million workers accepted the President's offer to arbitrate, but the President announced he could not proceed to do that until the unions and the carriers agreed on what was to be arbitrated.

Thus the controversy is back where it was before the 15 unions withdrew strike authorization. They accepted graduated increases of 4 to 10 cents and want the President to decide their right to overtime after 40 hours, but the carriers want both questions arbitrated as one.

The two operating unions—trainmen and engineers—who promptly accepted the President as referee are receiving meanwhile the benefit of a 5-cent hourly increase which he awarded as an overtime benefit.

With all the fanfare and flourish accompanying government possession of the railroads, Secretary Stimson broadcast last night an assurance to the public that "there will be no alteration in schedules, in service, in service or in personnel because of the change."

"The same men will operate the trains, the yards, the shops, the stations, and all other installations in precisely the same way as before," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed hope at his news conference the railroads could be turned back to private operation soon but he was not specific about conditions for that.

Notwithstanding government operation, the house interstate commerce committee will consider legislation to strip Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson of authority over railroad wages.

There was no indication, though, the rail unions would lend open support, despite their criticism of Vinson and their belief he illegally overrode the Railroad Labor act.

RECOGNITION WHEN DUE

When city officials and associates of Charles A. Cavanaugh honored him at a dinner party last night on the occasion of his 80th birthday anniversary, they paid tribute to a career of public service equalled by few, if any, in Salem today. It is a career which the Third ward councilman began as a councilman back at the turn of the century, in the days when municipal problems of great importance were faced, including acquisition of the city waterworks plant. Now back in his old seat in council, he can look back to years of service as service director, as a member of the county board of elections for 20 years, as a trustee of City hospital, which post he still holds, as a wise counselor and leader in the Democratic party.

But this recognition, coming at a time when he still is active despite his 80 years, embodied more than just a career of public service, noteworthy as it has been. It was a fitting tribute to Mr. Cavanaugh's sense of justice as well as to his sound judgment. Coupled with his amiable disposition has been his constant endeavor to be fair under all circumstances. In helping to reach many public decisions during his career his first and last thought always has been whether the action was just and fair, even though it might have been expedient.

These are the qualities which have endeared this veteran city official to a legion of friends. They are the qualities which brought him recognition last night—a recognition which came when due, instead of too late to be appreciated.

FACING THE CONSEQUENCES

Existence of a work stoppage in the steel industry in wartime and the threat of a railroad strike were the most serious of all the potential troubles that have loomed over United States war production.

Aside from the technicalities and the recriminations with which all of us are in danger of becoming preoccupied when disputes and tempers get hot, is one fact of paramount importance—the consequences of a work stoppage. The enemy will not wait till our home front troubles are straightened out. He will take shrewd and ruthless advantage of our difficulties. We cannot afford the luxury of protracted negotiations and bitter-end battles. Men needed for war production must be kept at work.

There will be time later, if the United States is victorious in the war, to settle scores and place blame. There will be time to decide who was right and who was wrong, who was vindictive and who wasn't and to place responsibility where it belongs. The weakness of democracy which Hitler counted on to give him an easy conquest has not been allowed to get the upper hand so far in this war, and certainly argument is not going to be tolerated now. Contrary to what any bloc or any spokesman for any bloc may think or say, the first order of business in this country is to win the war. If the United States were to lose the war, it wouldn't matter who was to blame.

All parties in wartime work stoppages are under a mandatory obligation to settle their difficulties quickly. That means unions, management and government. It means, also, the American people, through their influence on all three; it is their safety and the safety of their sons in service which is being jeopardized. The consequences of a major loss of production are infinitely more important than any of the factors which created the circumstances of the crisis.

CONQUEST OF DISTANCE

Exactly how many men and women were heard on the Christmas broadcasts which brought listeners at home into contact with members of the armed services abroad remains for the radio industry to tabulate, but it was a considerable number. More important than those who had the privilege of speaking were the multitudes they spoke for—all the sons, husbands, brothers and sisters who could not be home for Christmas. Their thoughts became for an instant articulated through the words of their representatives.

There have been many occasions during the war to stand in amazement before the conquest of distance by our new mechanical facilities. No single occasion, however, has been more spectacular than this bringing together from all parts of the earth the voices of Americans on wartime duty. Today, at last, it is literally true that no one needs to be cut off from contact with his fellows—and everything accomplished so far, no matter how miraculous—is only a promise of the greater things to come as more of the potentialities of instantaneous communication are realized.

VICTORY AND DEFEAT

The sinking of the Scharnhorst, one of Germany's few remaining battleships, is acclaimed as a great victory. It is.

But the shine was rubbed off the victory here in the United States by the occurrence of a work stoppage in the steel industry which threatens to give the Germans and their ally in the Orient a vastly greater victory.

The Scharnhorst was one of the end-products of a basic industry. If there were no steel, there would be no modern battleships.

Trouble in the steel industry here in this country does not mean there will be any immediate effect on the fighting fronts. It does not mean the American war effort or the efforts of our allies will be hurt today, tomorrow, or even next week. It does mean that if the trouble is not soon over, the effect will be felt in two, or three months from now.

In two or three months, according to all the spokesmen, the great invasion of Europe from the west will be either accomplished, or imminent. Thousands—tens of thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands—of men will offer their lives to bring an end to the war. All those men are training for that supreme moment today.

It will not be reassuring for them to hear that back home the steel they will need is not being made because their government and some of their fellow citizens haven't been able to agree on the terms of a contract governing their wages.

While all the energies may be keyed to exciting pressure, the best results of a practical and constructive nature may be attained by a concentrated marshalling of the forces and opportunities, developed with diligence, attention to details and methods, sustained by sound judgment and prudence. Extravagance, excess expenditures in funds or nervous energy, might imperil cherished results, either in new moves or in stimulating inert or crystallized old matters. Keep safe and sane in all things.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for an excellent opportunity for putting their affairs and possessions on a growing, sound, safe and enduring basis, largely by concentrated attention to the possibilities, either in old matters or in launching new and progressive enterprises. Hard work, diligence, sound plans developed by clever details and tactics or definite executive ability should attract the financial support or approbation of those in power. Over-shooting the mark, however, with arrogance, suspicion and conceit, together with extravagance and excess in outlay of funds and energies may be detrimental. Moderation, steadfastness and thrift, promise great personal as well as business gratification. Pleasure and affection should not be lacking.

A child born on this day should have splendid equipment for a stable, enduring and fortunate career, with fine executive ability and skill. But a tendency to extravagance, conceit, suspicion and envy might cloud the issue.

The history of Rome is pretty much the history of the world.—Napoleon.

It has been said that the interests of management and labor are the same. The important thing is that it is of the interest of each if the other does well.—Moses Shapiro, WLB arbitrator.

Big Allied invasion armies in Britain, Corsica, Sicily and other countries are ready for action, and it appears the Allies are making large-scale preparations for launching an invasion.—Turkish press.

What some of the people are anxious to learn is whether those 2,000,000,000 red and blue ration tokens, to be issued late in February, may be used as poker chips.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Little Yet Known About Common Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAD A cold last week for the first time in about five years and my friends would say—"Well, it's lucky you know what to do for it." But that's just it. I don't have.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

the faintest faith in anything to do for a cold, except to go to bed. Undoubtedly colds are spread by droplet infection. If a person with a cold sneezes he sprays the air for yards around with moist particles each containing a germ in the center which floats around for hours and infects other people. A cold produces little immunity. Paul and Freese say the immunity to colds last twenty-three days to seven weeks.

Weather and Colds
There is certainly something in the relationship of cold weather and rain, snow and wet to catching cold. There are three seasons when colds are at their peak—(1) January and February, (2) April, May and June, and (3) September and October. The intervals, by the way, are about the length of Paul and Freese's seven week period of immunity.

The relationship between cold and wet is not very clear. Experiments in Norway showed that a sudden drop in temperature was not necessarily the signal for an outbreak of colds, but if the arrival of the first boat of the shipping season corresponded to the cold spell, colds were prevalent. In other words, the man on the boat brought some new, fresh germs in and they caused the epidemic—plus the drop in temperature. It was also noted that trappers who fell through the ice didn't catch cold, but if the men had been to town through the summer and fall, they did catch cold. The lesson seems to be—"Don't fall through the ice after you have been to town"—cold comfort.

Cold Prevention
Prevention is still unsatisfactory, to say the least. Oral vaccines—taken by mouth—have been repeatedly proved worthless. In one college the director of hygiene gave half the student body oral vaccine capsules and half of them milk sugar capsules. Those who were taking milk sugar capsules thought they were cold vaccines. Counting the number of colds in the two groups the ones who took cold capsules had a few more colds than the ones who ate the milk sugar. A report states that hypodermic vaccines reduce colds about 25 per cent, but such cases have never wandered up my alley.

"THAT KEITH WOMAN"

by PHYLLIS MOORE GALLAGHER

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

I looked at Luke Cramer then. I heard Doctor John Redmond telling him not to go out today, as he'd urged him yesterday not to attend the inquest, pointing out the dangerous consequences which might follow. Luke had not argued, he'd simply gotten into his overcoat and, white-faced and weak, had gone down the stairs holding his handkerchief for support. Following behind him it had come to me that nothing really mattered to Luke now; that if he had a physical collapse due to the strain of exertion after a high fever, it would be a rivalry not worth thinking about. The thing that did matter to Luke, the urgent all-compelling vital breathless need, was to be near Pamela as he possibly could until the very end.

Peter Gibson wasn't at the funeral. I was glad Peter hadn't come. At times when he looked at me I had to hold myself back from running off to write a sonnet or something.

Reginald was there and so were other servants, including the blonde maid, Charlotte Cunningham, which indicated that "certain aspects of the case must have been cleared up" since she was no longer being held by the police as "a material witness."

My mother and father stood on either side of me. Dad's hand on my arm and Mother watching me as closely as Sergeant Hornblower and his henchmen were watching everyone else. Sometimes even now I wake up swept with horror and sick pity, thinking how easily what was to come could have been averted if only I had a little deeper, investigated thoroughly during those first few days after the time. For it was all there, the whole horrible pattern, complete and deadly, visible if you could just see through the thin layer of extraneous things down to the ugly, sordid motive. Yes, I hate to admit it, but I could have saved the other two.

After the service at the cemetery was over, Dad suggested we drive a little in the gorgeous November morning and then drop by Gaston's for luncheon. We did. Mother and Dad, and I, and the conversation ball back and forth without a stop. I didn't talk at all, being too busy fighting down the panicky feeling that something unseen—something hideous and sinister—was creeping up on me. It was almost a relief to climb out of the car at last, and turn into the gay badinage of the fashionable French restaurant just off Dupont Circle.

Gaston's is a Washington legend. Before the war, diplomats from all the Embassies and Legations gathered there at noon for snails and one another's company, to eye the feminine oomph-places who patronized the place because the "big shots" were there, as well as visiting celebrities, chiefs of foreign missions, ranking bureaucrats, politicians and an occasional Cabinet member. The diplomats still gather there, but mostly to watch one another suspiciously, to strain their ears in the hope of overhearing something.

Gaston's has a way of dividing the sheep from the goats so markedly that the restaurant has the air of a Coronation with the nobility aloofly together and the peasants seated at a respectful distance.

As Gaston, smiling urbanely, was leading our little family trio to a table in the very heart of the sheep, I rather wished we'd been relegated to the goats. For in one of the side wall cubicles there were a good many goats important to me now, and I might have picked up some hot news.

For instance, there was Countess Fanella Castagna, Marvin and Elsie Eustace, Gladys Newcomb, Earle Pines and Doctor Wayne Courtney. Inasmuch as they were on their salad course, they had evidently come straight to Gaston's from the funeral. However, they didn't look as if they'd just returned from so depressing affair; they were quite cheerful.

If any of the tears had been shed at the cemetery, they must have been glycerine! And I was certain for the first time that Dr. Wayne Courtney had not harbored any undying love for Pamela. As the waiter pulled out my chair, I saw Dr. Courtney throw back his blond head and laugh gayly. Somehow it chilled my blood. It was so soon after Pam's funeral. So soon.

But Dr. Courtney wasn't the only one who looked gay and light-hearted that noon at Gaston's. Earle Pines' blue jowls were quivering with his subdued chuckles and Gladys Newcomb was giggling into her handkerchief; the others grinning broadly.

I glanced at my watch. "Exactly one hour ago Pamela Keith's funeral had ended with only that white-haired minister looking really grieved. I knew the minister was grieved, too. He had christened Pamela; he had known her as an infant and child and he'd lived to see Pamela turn from the church. Pamela had even swayed Sandra in that direction. Many considered Pam an atheist!

"I'm not a Puritan, but I believe firmly in God, and if there is ever a crisis in my life, I will have that faith. Thinking along that line, I found myself more than sorry for little Sandra. Then another idea struck me piercingly. It might be very easy indeed for an atheist to kill. The wrath of God wouldn't frighten him—or her; there would be no fear of the hereafter or a final judgment.

"I stared at the table in the cubicle. Marvin Eustace was believed to be an atheist, and I suddenly remembered that Earle Pines was, too. But where, exactly, did that lead me beyond my personal conviction that it would be far easier for an atheist to murder?

Dad was lading our soup when his voice shattered my thoughts: "Letty, you're moving your baggage out of that Keith house today. That funeral this morning almost undid me. Never before in my life have I felt such—well, such overtones of hate."

Mother said firmly: "You're not going to stay in that house another night, Letty. I mean it. You've been sleuthing around, sticking your nose into things that are absolutely no business of yours and, as a consequence, the murderer may well think you're on to him. The guilty one might try to poison you, or something. And being in all probability a doctor he'd know just how to do it too. Just how much roach powder or something of that kind to use."

"Roach powder!" I snorted. "That is flattering! Still, I think you've got something there, Mom." Turning to her, I added, "What you just said is beginning to click. You speak so definitely of the murderer knowing exactly how to poison me if he set his mind on it. That means you're still convinced a doctor did it?"

I didn't mention Wayne Courtney's name because an elderly stranger at the table next to ours was hanging on every word we said.

"I have never deviated from my original belief," Mother declared. "Why did he come back after all these years? And Pamela was murdered a week after his return! It adds up, Letty." She looked straight at me. "With all your sleuthing, young lady, you haven't found any other reason why he returned, now have you?"

"No. But I did find out that he has no patient at Emergency. Or anywhere else."

"You see," said mother excitedly, and I realized I hadn't told her this bit of news before. (I wondered if it would be news to the police if I told them, or had they already tripped up Courtney on that.)

Dad asked, "Letty, who is that woman over there? The good-looking one. Silver-fox jacket and turban."

I glanced at the cubicle. "Don't tell me you've never seen Gladys Newcomb before! She was Richard Keith's first wife, you know."

"Oh, I've seen her before. A great many times," said Dad. "And quite recently at the Mayflower. She was with Luke Cramer."

So it had been Gladys Newcomb who had been acclaimed by Father and the Congressman as a fine figure of a woman!

"Mrs. Newcomb is really built!" enthused Dad. "None of this starvation diet for her!"

"Nor for Countess Fanella Castagna," I pointed out and Dad observed, "The Countess leans a little too heavily toward the fat."

"Leans?" interrupted Mother. "That is a masterpiece of understatement. She wallows!"

I rode back to the hotel with my parents. At the front desk I found a letter from my University of Virginia swain and, like the speedy guy I knew him to be, he told me he was mailing me a University Year Book. It was easier to send the book than to make a list of each of the graduates for the year I'd requested, and he hoped I'd find what I was after.

"But don't tell me you've gone overboard for one of our old grads," my friend wrote at the end of his letter. "I couldn't bear that. The University has changed a lot in the last couple of decades," etc.

Gov. Bricker Bid For Presidency Topped
Ohio Political Party Activities In 1943

BY H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Gov. John W. Bricker's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination and his decision not to seek a fourth gubernatorial term highlighted party activities during the 1943 political year in Ohio.

Bricker's potential presidential candidacy was established after results of the 1942 election showed him a third term winner by the largest majority ever given an Ohio candidate for governor — 337,338 votes. His formal declaration of candidacy came late last fall.

At the same time, Bricker announced he would forego a try for a fourth term as governor.

At the close of the year four candidates already were formally in the Republican gubernatorial race. They were: Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert, Cincinnati's Mayor James Garfield Stewart and Farnsworth Albert Ed. Payne of near Springfield.

Bright Still Undecided

There was a strong possibility of additional gubernatorial entrants, including State Treasurer Don H. Ebright of Akron, who said he would announce after the first of the year whether he would enter the race.

The Democratic gubernatorial race also was an open one with three avowed candidates already in the field: Former State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley, State Senator Walter Baertsch of Lucas county, and Atty Frank A. Dye of Columbus.

Other possible entrants are: At-would not resign and no legal method was found to force him out. State Central Committee Chairman Al A. Horstman of Dayton had soothed Ferguson by the end of the year that he had lost much of his bellicose demeanor.

Ferguson Is Critical

Ferguson continued, however, to take advantage of every opportunity to worry the Bricker administration. At the end of the year his criticism was aimed chiefly against administration of the liquor department. He charged Ohio's liquor shortage was chiefly the result of bad management.

Democratic National Committee Chairman Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati virtually eliminated himself from active politics by announcing he was not a candidate for any elective office, including that of national committeeman. It has been rumored that Sawyer would not be averse to accepting a diplomatic post under President Roosevelt.

G. O. P. Municipal Trend

Of secondary political importance was the Republican trend in municipal elections. Outside Cleveland, which decided to stay with Mayor Lausche, Republicans registered heavy gains.

Akron replaced a Democratic mayor with a Republican and Youngstown retained Democratic control by only eight votes.

The only really active Democrat during the year was State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who made a more or less ineffectual fight to bring about reorganization of the party's leadership. Ferguson based his fight upon what he termed failure of the present organization to get for Ohio Democrats their full share of federal patronage.

Ferguson leveled his first punch at the State Executive Chairman Darrell Jones of Newark. He started a movement to have Jones ousted but it faded when Jones said he

Old Railroad Engine Ran
Milk Condensing Plant

JUNEAU, Wis.—An old Chicago and North Western railroad engine, too light for the heavy wartime trains of today, did its bit for the war when it saved some 2,000-000 pounds of condensed milk for the armed service.

Burst boiler plates in the Dairy-land Co-operative condensery here brought a call for help. The old engine was placed on a siding and two connections made. For four days a train crew, assisted by the condensery workers, kept up sufficient steam to keep the condensing process in operation.

The plant produces about 500,000 pounds a day and all of it goes to the government, either for the armed forces or lend-lease.

California produces more lettuce than all the other states combined.

British Raid On Channel Isle Reported by Nazis

LONDON, Dec. 29. — The Germans said today that two British commando assaults had been carried out within three days on Sark in the English channel islands which lie athwart the possible path of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forthcoming invasion of the continent from the west.

The German account followed a report by the German high command Sunday of a combined British commando raid Christmas Eve in an apparent pre-invasion probing of defenses on the Nazi-held French coast.

None of the reports was confirmed by any Allied source.

The broadcast said that the Sark assaults "failed like all similar attempts of this kind."

Only One Change On January Meat Chart

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. — The new January meat chart lists only one small point value boost—on fresh hams, but Price Administrator Chester Bowles sees the ration cost of meat beginning to climb more noticeably in February.

The OPA chief, in a radio address last night, said he "wouldn't be a bit surprised" to find higher values on some meat products the month after next.

The change in fresh ham values, effective Sunday, hikes the ration cost one point a pound.

The values on the rest of pork cuts and all other important brown stamp foods remain virtually unchanged on the new chart, with butter continuing at 16 points and veal, lamb and all but three beef items staying put. Cheese points, too, remain the same.

The beef changes are a two-point reduction in dried beef values, to

Allies Hung Onto
Salerno By Thread
In Early Invasion

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Dec. 29.—Allied headquarters revealed today the Fifth army at the time of the original Salerno landing was composed of just one American division and two British divisions and that the whole Italian operation was a gamble the success of which hung by a thread for a while.

A detailed review of the Italian campaign and the lessons it had provided at a press conference gave this account:

Because the campaign in Sicily did not end until Aug. 17 and weeks are required to prepare a division for an amphibious operation, only three divisions were available to Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark the initial landing.

Previously the Eighth army had landed Sept. 3 and by Sept. 8 had advanced 55 miles.

Two days after the initial landings the Fifth army still had less than three full divisions.

Campaign Conclusions
In the meantime the Germans brought up reinforcements and launched a full-scale armored attack.

Conclusions drawn from the campaign were:

Soundness of basic training had been proved.

Infantry still is the "queen of the battle."

Air bursts by American artillery have been particularly effective.

American tanks and tank destroyers have been more effective than German models.

Use of small "Cub" airplanes for artillery observation has proved a big aid.

Service units must display great initiative not found in handbooks.

Complete coordination must be maintained among land, sea and air elements.

Brand New German
JU-88 Bomber Well
Guarded At Dayton

(By Associated Press)
DAYTON, Dec. 29.—In a well-guarded hangar at Wright field, stands a brand-new German JU-88 bomber, hero of one of the strangest tales of the war—the story of a discouraged young Nazi pilot who deliberately picked out the best plane he could find and flew it from Rumania to a British airfield on the island of Cyprus.

The story, just released by the Army Air Force materiel command here, says the young Nazi's destination was Syria but that "he never got there."

Fogbound over the Mediterranean, he landed on Cyprus "just as a squadron of British Spitfires swooped down upon him," and "readily answered the barrage of questions which dumfounded British airmen shot at him."

British officers examined the ship, found it had been flown less than 50 hours. From then on, the JU-88 became a guinea pig for Yankee ingenuity and began a series of travels under its own power which eventually brought it here.

Flew Plane To U. S.

It was flown to Cairo, where Major Walter E. Newby of Reedley, Calif., and Lt. G. W. Cook of Pittsburgh, Pa., were about to board a plane for the United States. They received permission to fly back the JU-88.

The only data available on procedure of handling the ship was a small handbook—printed in German. This had to be translated.

Tests showed the German plane used 87 octane fuel. The nearest available equivalent was 91. Total flying range of the plane was estimated at 1,300 miles but by installing two 300-gallon wing-tanks from a P-38 (Lightning) this was increased to around 2,000 miles.

Guns were removed and a fuel-transfer system intended for a B-24 Liberator bomber was pressed into service.

The American flag and AAF insignia painted on its fuselage and tail-surfaces, the craft left Cairo Oct. 8. Allied air bases enroute were notified so quick-triggered airmen would not shoot down the "brazen" enemy ship.

And before the plane could land at Morrison field, near Miami—its first American base—aircraft spotters frenziedly reported sighting a "German" plane. Three accurately identified it as a JU-88.

Major Newby and Lt. Cook landed at Wright field at sundown, Oct. 14—five and a half days out of Cairo. And today, mechanics and technicians continue to swarm over the plane, jotting down every detail of construction and performance—possible new ideas for America's own aircraft.

Defendant Has Perfect
Alibi—District Attorney

ST. LOUIS—Frank Motherway, assistant circuit attorney, got the surprise of his career recently, by asking a defendant where he had been hiding while police searched for him to make the arrest.

"I wasn't hiding from anyone," the defendant answered, "and just to prove it, I was at your house that day."

While Motherway was still speechless, the defendant explained that he worked for a decorating firm that painted the attorney's apartment and had discussed the work with Mrs. Motherway on the day in question. After he got out on bond, he added, he went back and finished the paint job.

How much does it cost to bomb Berlin ?

SUPPOSE, in the dusk of an English evening, 1,000 huge bombers soar over the Channel and head for Berlin.

By the time those planes return to England, their motors will have consumed 2,400,000 gallons of gasoline!

The cost . . . of the gasoline ALONE . . . will be more than $380,000.

To pay for the gasoline used on ONE such raid, 96,000 Americans would have to invest at least 10 percent of their next pay check in War Bonds!

You get a big kick out of reading about those 1,000-plane raids. You know that such raids, if repeated often enough, will soften up the Axis. But . . .

What are YOU doing to help pay the cost of those raids? (In addition to the gasoline they use, it costs Uncle Sam TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS to build 1,000 4-motored bombers . . . plus the cost of training the 10,000 men who make up their crews!)

Modern war is expensive business . . . its cost runs into fantastic figures. 30,000,000 American wage earners are now putting an average of 10 percent of each pay check into War Bonds every pay day . . . but still it isn't enough!

Our air raids on the Axis are increasing in frequency and intensity. When land operations really get going, the cost will be staggering.

More and more Americans must join the Pay-Roll Savings Plan . . . more than those already in the Pay-Roll Savings Plan must begin to jack up their War Bond purchases . . . must start to invest more than 10 percent!

Remember . . . War Bonds are the finest investment in the world today. You get back $4 for every $3 you invest. And . . . the more War Bonds you buy now, the quicker the Axis will be licked . . . and the less the war will cost in the long run.

Think it over. And every time you're tempted to put a nickel in something you don't absolutely need—put it in War Bonds instead!

Alumni Wins Basketball Game From Salem Quakers, 41-38.

Alumni Take Early Lead In Rough And Tumble Contest In High School Gym Tuesday

Using combinations of five and five—that totaled up to 10 of the best basketball players Salem has produced in 10 years—a fast breaking, frequently shooting Alumni squad handed Coach Herb Brown's cage aggregation its second defeat in five games last night 41-38, in the high school gym.

Although the High school lads gained momentum in every quarter as the game progressed, the Quakers couldn't overcome the seven point lead the oldsters build up in the rough and tumble first stanza.

Brown's squad only scored two points in the initial frame and boosted their total to 12 as the half ended with the Alumni out in front by nine points. The Quakers came back in the second half, but not quite strong enough, to outscore their opponents 12 to 10 in the third quarter and 14 to 10 in the final.

The Alumni squad included four servicemen in the starting lineup coupled with six others, who made up two powerful aggregations which were alternated throughout the game by the acting coach, Wayne Sidinger, former assistant mentor at Kent State university.

In the starting group were Kenny Shears, Amos Dunlap, Bob Ritchie, Bill Schaeffer, and Bob Ruffing. The second and fourth quarter team consisted of "Gibby" Everhart, "Tut" Guappone, Wayne Sidinger, R. Purn Sidinger and Bob Jaeger. Shears, Ritchie, Schaeffer, and Ruffing are all servicemen home on leave.

Alumni Were Strong
Undoubtedly the fact that the Alumni had two full teams to use alternately, giving each aggregation a full quarter of rest between action, made a difference in the final tally of the contest. Brown was forced to use new combinations in the second and third quarters in order to give his starting group rest to maintain the pace. Neither of the Alumni squads seemed superior to the other as they scored an almost equal number of points in their pair of quarters. The second and fourth quarter Alumni group did allow the Quakers more points in these two chapters, but they managed to outscore their team-mates by three points.

Leading the Alumni with five amazing shots from all angles on the floor was "Gibby" Everhart, expert cager from the 1937 squad that earned its way to the state finals in Columbus. Everhart astounded the spectators in the final quarter by swishing three shots through from way out on the floor with unbelievable dexterity.

The rest of the Alumni scoring was fairly well divided with Kenny Shears, also a member of the 1937 team, getting second honors with a his three one-handed shots from almost the center of the floor. The scoring for the winners was done almost completely on field goals, with only three points coming from free throws.

Brian Leading Scorer
Walter Brian, still getting scores for the locals, pulled down 12 valuable points to lead the Quakers in scoring with his four field goals and four fouls. "Flick" Enriken took Ray Wise's place as Brian's scoring mate and collected nine points.

Norman Smith did his best job of the season from the floor by getting three buckets for a six-point total. Brian did an exceptionally good job of holding Bill Schaeffer and Wayne Sidinger to just six points between them. The rummy pivot man has been among the leading scorers in every game this year and has turned in several of the best defensive games seen in Salem for some time. Both Schaeffer and Sidinger had the reach on Brian but neither could score on him with any ease, nor could they keep Brian from breaking loose on his under-basket shots.

The game was an exciting one and kept the spectators on edge throughout all four quarters. Several times the Quakers looked as though they might overcome the Alumni lead. However, the three point difference in the second quarter and the three point margin at the close of the contest was the best they could do.

17 Personal Fouls
Numerous fouls were called by Joe Kelly and Ray Reasbeck, who were kept busy in the last contest with 17 personals being charged against the Alumni and nine against the Quakers. Salem made 10 free tries and missed on 12 others, while the Alumni made good on but three of nine possibilities.

Salem's offense was working well under-basket with nine of their 14 field goals coming from that area. Two more were made from pivot shots and another pair from well out on the floor. One basket came on a rebound by "Flick" Enriken after Ray Wise had missed a long one. The Alumni, sinking 19 field goals, collected nine from long shots, six underbasket, three from rebounds, and another on a pivot shot by Bill Schaeffer, his only goal of the evening.

QUAKERS TO MEET CANTON LEHMAN ON THURSDAY EVENING

Brownmen Face Stiff Test In Game With Stark County School

With their first assignment for this week over, Coach Herb Brown's Salem Quakers will travel tomorrow night to Canton where they will face one of the stiffest tests they have slated for them this season in Jim Robinson's second edition of the Polar Bears.

The contest is slated for 8:30 following two preliminary games between Reserve and Freshmen teams of the two schools.

Robinson's crew—rated as the best in Stark county—boasts four returning lettermen from the high-scoring outfit that went to the Regional finals at Kent last season and copped the difficult Canton city championship. The Polar Bears, although beaten once this year, have a 60-point-per-game average that was stopped by Akron Ellet in a battle that ended 51 to 48.

In their other three engagements the Bears collected three impressive wins, one over Wooster 69-42, the second over Columbus East 49-22, and the latest against Cleveland Garfield Heights by the amazing score of 74 to 39.

The Big Four
The four big guns from last season, Jim Dolan, Bevier Bell, Maurice Becker, and Bob Elasser, all have at least a 12 point average in their four games. Dolan, the star last year, is hitting a 16 point average and is rated as uncanny for his accuracy from all angles.

In the other vacancy the Canton mentor is using Bill Bell and Jack Freese alternately, and he often uses Lew Wright in one pivot position. The Bears will have a distinct height advantage over the Quakers as towering Bevier Bell is said to be six feet five inches and two others, Jim Dolan and Jack Freese are over six feet.

The Canton offense is mainly a slow, deliberate one, with some fast breaks to vary the pace. Robinson employs a man-to-man defense, although defensively the Bears are not as strong as on offense. In the Akron Ellet game, which was an upset, Canton failed to maintain its high scoring pace, netting only 48 points, and allowed the Akron squad to connect on 24 of some 37 attempts from the floor.

By employing an exceptionally tight defense and developing some scoring power from all five positions the Brownmen will have a good chance to down the rolling Bears. However, the Quaker crew will have trouble capturing the rebounds on both ends of the floor because of the exceptional height of the opponents.

Different Offense
Coach Robinson, football mentor at Lehman who took over basketball last year, uses a different type offense from any the locals have seen this season. Just two men run under the basket and the other three play well out on the court and take the majority of the shots from set positions around the foul line. Robinson's players generally "let go" from some unexpected positions, catching their opponents off guard.

The court on which the Salemites will try their luck in their third road trip this year is almost equal to the local one, but has a much higher ceiling and allows fewer spectators.

Lehman is the smallest High school in Canton, with 200 fewer students than Salem High school. In spite of this fact, the Polar Bears have advanced once to the state finals, and last year to the regional finals in Kent. Salem has never beaten a Lehman squad and was eliminated from the district finals in Youngstown two years ago by the same Polar Bears who went on to the final game in the state play-offs.

After the Lehman fray the Quakers will be idle for over a week, meeting Alliance on the local floor Friday, Jan. 7. From tomorrow evening until late in February the Brownmen haven't an easy contest and will be kept busy continuously with East Liverpool, Warren, Canton Lincoln, Youngstown Rayen, and Girard before they reach a breathing spell in the Wellsville Bengal game on Feb. 15.

Southern California Tempting Treat As Rose Bowl Underdog

(By Associated Press)
PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 20.—Never beaten in six Rose Bowl starts, Southern California nevertheless is one of the juiciest short-odds bets ever for its New Year's football game against the University of Washington.

The Spring Street seers, who set the price, have installed Coach Pest Welch's Huskies a 3 to 1 or even 12 to 1 points choice. Apparently this has been decided upon with comparative scores in mind; as much as Washington swamped March Field's Flies and the Skybirds did the same to the Trojans.

Just the same, 3 to 1 odds on this Rose Bowl game are difficult to reconcile. Both teams are somewhat unknown quantities. Washington played only four games, three of them against weak and under-manned teams. Southern California blew sky high in late October, developed fumbling habits that Coach Jeff Cravath couldn't overcome.

If the field is dry, Trojan speed and air power may offset a weight disadvantage. Observers who have seen both teams in action report the Huskies are weak against short passes over the middle and that their line, averaging 210 pounds, isn't very fast and quite likely to fall prey to the Trojans' quick opening plays from the T formation.

Bowling Tourney Set
CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The country's ranking bowlers will shoot for a record first prize of $5,100 in the 31st Petersen individual bowling classic.

The top prize, made possible because of a record number of entries, will be the biggest individual award ever offered in any bowling tourney, said Louis P. Petersen, originator of the meet.

Competing for the first prize and additional awards of $25,300 will be 1,216 bowlers, all with averages of 180 and over. They will roll eight games across 16 alleys in the tourney, to be held Jan. 22 and 23 and from Jan. 29 to Feb. 6.

Lamotta Favored to Win Over Kochan In Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Jake Lamotta remains the favorite over George Kochan in tonight's mid-dleweight bout at Madison Square garden although the Bronx buster will be fighting under the strain of knowing the car he was driving killed a 11-year-old boy 48 hours earlier.

Lamotta's machine was involved in the death of Albert Berg, who died two hours after being run over. The Bronx slugger, rated No. 1 among the active middleweights by Ring magazine this week, is the 24 to 1 favorite over the Akron, O. seaman in the early betting. Each weighed 165½, as they completed the heavy work for their 10-round meeting.

Average Gate In Cleveland Boxing Shows Was $35,000

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—Speaking comparatively, Matchmaker Larry Atkins wants Mike Jacobs to know boxing didn't boom nearly so well this year in Madison Square garden as it did in Ohio's metropolises.

Cleveland's maker of matches concedes Uncle Mike's average gate of $51,646 in 22 New York shows was "pretty fair," but—

"Mike Jacobs didn't do nearly so well in New York as we did in Cleveland, considering the difference in populations of the two cities and the lot of fighters he had sewed up as compared with the few that we could depend on," Loquacious Larry declared.

"There were only 10 shows in Cleveland, and our average for the five of them in which Jimmy Bivins boxed was approximately $49,000. That ought to make Mr. Jacobs feel a little less like a Tex Rickard, hadn't it?"

"What we could have done with another fighter like Bivins," mused Atkins. "Would we have made that Jacobs and his figures look sick."

Top boxoffice draw—$62,000—in the Lakefront city was the outdoor 15-pounder in which Bivins successfully defended his "duration light heavyweight" title against Lloyd Marshall.

The gate for the 10 cards staged by Atkins totaled $354,000, or an average of better than $35,000.

"We had to get our smash gates with just three heavyweights and three light heavyweights," Atkins explained. "But that Jacobs—he had champions and top men in nearly all weight classes. And he had New York and the Garden."

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—There's an old saying that an oarsman needs a strong back and a weak mind but it took a former Washington crew man, Chuck McGuinness, to figure out a way around the ODT ruling against the use of school buses to transport athletic teams.

Chuck coached the Dallas, Ore. High school last fall and his boys traveled all over the state via bus—and with official blessings, too. Here's how it was done: The Dalles played Friday night games, so Chuck lined up Saturday and Sunday farm jobs for his squad. "We used just 200 gallons of gasoline. We harvested 1,800 sacks of spuds, 1,200 sacks of onions and five tons of walnuts," McGuinness explained. "The farmers were grateful. We got to play football—and the ODT approved."

FIGGER FILBERT
Hank Wolfe, who starts those arguments about scoring records, now wants to know who can top the scoring feats of Glenn Knox, former William and Mary basketball star now performing for a Richmond, Va. independent team called Swat-ty's (did they get the name because they hit, Hank?).

In four games, Knox has hooped 130 points for an average of 32.5 a game. Well, Brooms Abramovic, who scored 2,151 points in four seasons with Salem, W. Va., college and averaged 29.88 in 30 games one year, is playing semi-pro ball around his home town of Etna, Pa., and may have something to say about it.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
Don Dunphy, the tight broadcaster, likely will put the Yanks and Giants baseball games on the air next summer. The $15,000 Fox stake, second only to the Hambletonian as the big event of harness racing, again will be raced at Greenville, O., next August, along with the Rich Horseman stake and Horseman Futurity.

OBSERVATION CAR
A Vallejo, Calif., duck hunter recently was fined for hunting without a license, taking ducks without a duck stamp, shooting from a motor vehicle, shooting from a main highway and shooting migratory birds without a rifle. And Wilbur Adams of the Sacramento Bee wonders why he wasn't also pinched for parking on the highway to make it an end of a perfect day.

The heaviest deer taken from Arizona forests during November, 1943 weighed 309 pounds.

JAPANESE

the Allied operation was so perfectly synchronized that military leaders checked their watches at the exact moment their planes were scheduled to appear, looked aloft—and there they were.

Destroyer Lost

Within 265 miles of Rabaul—Japan also has a plane refueling base halfway between them and Cape Gloucester at Cape Hoskins—were targets aplenty. There were bombers, fighters, cruisers, destroyers, crowded ships, tank landing craft.

The Allies lost one destroyer, a small cargo boat and seven planes in that landing. The Japanese lost 61 planes belatedly opposing it.

In the midst of the invasion campaign, the Allied airforce has pounced on Japanese shipping at Kavieng, New Ireland, a vital enemy station on the Nipponese sea lifeline from Truk to Rabaul. And they have not encountered a single Japanese plane. War correspondents have written that presumably Japan was keeping planes at Rabaul for the New Britain battle.

But those ships lost at Kavieng, including a destroyer and two 10,000-ton vessels, are a part of the New Britain battle. Kavieng is only 160 miles from Rabaul. It has good air bases. No planes? Ships without protective air cover are dead ducks as the Germans proved to the Allies at Bari.

And invasions of vital positions call for opposition before, not after, they are accomplished.

Kavieng, Rabaul, Cape Gloucester and Arawe suggest all is not well with Japan's air arm.

Gen. 'Ike's Aide

Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, for more than 25 years in the service of the British air force, has been named deputy supreme commander of future invasion forces of the Allies under the American general, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Tedder served under Ike in the North African operations as an officer commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean. (International) prove the thesis of daylight, high-altitude precision bombing when the worth of that program was questioned seriously at Casablanca. Obviously, such a man is not being "kicked upstairs." It seems much more likely that, while the 8th's striking power is more important than ever, its relative importance as an independent command has shrunk in the vastly increased scope of all operations against Germany.

So Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, whose Northwest African strategic airforce obliterated the supply sources of the Axis African armies, moves to command of the 8th, while Eaker takes over command of three U. S. air forces, the 9th, 12th and 15th, plus RAF units in the Mediterranean. Another portent of increasing Mediterranean air operations is the assignment of Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, veteran chief of the 13th air force's operations in the Solomons, to succeed Doolittle in command of the 15th.

member of the board of trustees of the Salem City hospital association.

Some of the persons who have known him for a considerable time—P. J. Dean, Mayor R. R. Johnson, Fire Chief Vincent Malloy and Ralph W. Hawley—praised Cavanaugh for his untiring efforts.

He was lauded as an official who always used good judgment in his actions and as a veteran whose counsel is considered wisely.

Cavanaugh was an active city official when the city waterworks department came into being and again when the sewage treatment plant was built.

In 1906—Salem's centennial year—the veteran official was a member of the committee which accepted the Centennial park deed in behalf of the city.

The old-timers last night recalled that Charley took a week making up his mind on whether to accept the service directorship because he wasn't sure he could measure up to the job. Others knew he could.

Said the police and firemen who were present at the dinner, "He seems like a dad to us. Why, if he didn't show up at the city hall every day, we'd send out to see if something was wrong."

Charley, deeply appreciative of the dinner held in his honor, was able only to say it was a "great pleasure" to him.

Safety Director C. E. Phillips presented Cavanaugh with a cash gift from the police and firemen. Solicitor Henry L. Reese served as toastmaster of the program.

Seek Elementary Schedule

A committee on teachers' salaries also asked that boards of education be required to adopt similar salary schedules for elementary and high school teachers without penalty for those now in higher salary brackets, and asked adjustment of tax bases of school support in relation to the cost of living.

The assembly also adopted a report opposing the practice of hiring lower salaried substitute teachers to fill regular teaching positions and voted to prepare and submit to the Ohio School Survey commission next year a proposed law defining the term "substitute teacher."

The executive committee was authorized to prepare a plan giving all teachers greater retirement benefits than now available under and present it to the next session of the legislature.

"TOJO TONIC" RUB AIDS MARINE AIRMEN

(By United Press)

AN ADVANCE SOUTH PACIFIC BASE—Tired Marine fighter pilots at this base now may obtain a rub-down in the only massage parlor in the South Pacific—outside of which hangs the sign, "Rubdown for Pilots U. S. Style—Sorry It's a He, not a She."

Richard L. Weaver, USN, pharmacist first class (3605 20th st.), San Francisco, is proprietor of the canvas-covered establishment located on the edge of an old Jap bivouac area, Marine Public Relations Officer Second Lieut. Penn T. Kimball, New Britain, Conn., claims Weaver's "Tojo tonic," a secret formula of alcohol, glycerine, wintergreen, menthol and other medicaments, is a guaranteed reviver for tired pilots after hours in a cramped fighter cockpit.

Weaver, 36, was an attendant for eight years in the psychopathic ward of the Los Angeles County Hospital, and formerly was a professional swimmer. He claims to have swum the San Francisco Golden Gate twice.

Weaver believes his treatments "adds two to four hours to the flying efficiency" of the pilots, but says he could do better if he had an electric vibrator.

Col. Powell, River Engineer, To Retire

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28—The godfather of the modern Ohio river gets out of uniform Jan. 1 despite the best efforts of river organizations to keep him in.

Col. Roger G. Powell, resident member of the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and former U. S. division engineer here, is now 62, over the statutory age limit, and must retire.

Col. Powell is author of the so-called Powell plan for development of the Ohio, including a half-billion dollar flood control program and a long-range post-war improvement of navigation facilities.

As district, sector and division engineer here from 1925 to 1938, he was largely responsible for completion in 1929 of the nine-foot navigation channel the full 981 miles of the Ohio. He also drew up standard regulations and signals for use of the locks. Previously each lockmaster exercised his own ideas, and they varied from lock to lock.

The new navigation program, already given a formal hearing at Pittsburgh last month, contemplates a probable 12-foot channel to handle the bigger commercial movements expected in years to come.

BEAT OFF JAP

since the Dec. 15 invasion. Our losses and damage were described as slight.

American Thunderbolt fighters struck down 39 planes from 75 Japanese bombers and fighters which came over Arawe in two formations after dawn Monday. Earlier, accurate anti-aircraft ground fire had winged three planes from dive-bomber formations, and American torpedo-boats took a four-plane toll from another wave of 30 divebombers.

The Australians in New Guinea captured Waiagat, the enemy's base and supply base on the coast of Huon peninsula, taking equipment which included artillery, and supplies.

The Japanese imperial command today claimed 35 Allied planes were shot down by interceptors and ground defenses during Allied raids yesterday on Rabaul, New Britain, Buin on Bougainville island and Shortland island. A Tokyo broadcast added that Japanese naval air units attacked an Allied airfield at Finschhafen, New Guinea, last night, starting fires at two points.

POLICE DOGS GUARD AVIATION GAS TANK

NEW YORK—Two police dogs are on duty at one of the large Shell Oil Co. ocean terminals on the Atlantic seacoast guarding a tank of high octane aviation gasoline from any possibility of sabotage before its shipment to the various battlefronts. Harry and Beane at their names, averaging 55 pounds in weight.

Carefully chosen for their work, they have done such a good job in keeping everybody out of the tank yards having no business there that their reputation as "terrors" has spread throughout the entire vicinity.

Their training consisted of a special course conducted by a dog trainer, which was given along with the men guards at the plant. Do patrols have proved so successful that they have been installed at many of the Shell terminals.
